1. Rationale

Catholic schools foster everything good and unifying in society from the perspective of the Gospel. They promote the development of a society which reflects the love and goodness of God, where peace and reconciliation grow along with justice, compassion, mercy and a special commitment to the poor.

In Catholic education it is recognised that all people are created with the same nature and origin and enjoy equal dignity to develop, make amends, reconcile, restore relationships and be welcomed back with love, acceptance, forgiveness and support.

Catholic education is committed to integrating Gospel truths, virtues and values in appropriate ways into all relationships and learning. Members of Catholic school communities promote a Gospel vision of society in order to critique social attitudes and values, practices and trends in social, commercial, political and legal structures (Mandate, para 14).

All those involved in Catholic education are called to be the 'face of Christ' within their communities, especially to the most challenging and disengaged learner. Catholic schools give witness to the importance of offering opportunities for all their members to aspire to and achieve the highest goals. Catholic education is immersed in the Gospel of Jesus and filled with his Spirit, values everyone equally.
